

An excellent knowledge of French and German was also a Mental Alert.

As evidence of her remarkable mental abilities, her son, Dr. R. H. Haffensperger, included in his book, "The Incident," which occurred while she was listening to a radio program from a Columbus station last Sunday.

The speaker repeated, one of Bryant's poems which Mrs. Haffensperger had memorized. He said that when he misheard one of the lines she immediately detected the mistake and quoted them correctly.

When Mrs. Haffensperger and her husband lived here in 1883-84, while Mrs. Haffensperger was a Presbyterian pastor, the church was located on N. Prospect st. The known as Westcot, on the ground now occupied by the Auto Inn garage. The old church building was being used as a part of the garage.

THIEVES ROB CHRISTMAS TREE OF ELECTRIC BULBS

Carry Away 75 Lights from Central Junior High School Grounds

That the spirit of peace and good will did not prevail among all Marion citizens during the visit of Santa Claus here Tuesday is apparent in a report to local police that vandals raided the Christmas tree on the Central Junior High School grounds some time Tuesday night and carried away 75 of the 15-watt electric bulbs to illuminate the tree.

The bulbs were the property of the

Marion Repairman Claims Ability to Read Patron's Ailments by Their Shoes

SHOE repairing is fast becoming a seasonal business. "Galoshes," remarks C. E. Layman, who has gone through all the various periods of shoe repairing, without any clues to help them in tracing the thieves.

Ralph Hall, 359 Mt. Vernon av., reports that thieves last night relieved him of his suitcase, containing several shirts and other articles of apparel.

The Hayden Tire & Supply Co., reported that two tires were stolen from in front of the store on St. Main-st., early last night.

and now looks back at the times when it was a great business. It is indeed the case. Galoshes don't take half soles, and heels, at least not the kind that a majority of shoe repairmen are equipped to put on. When a galosh wears out it generally goes into the trash pile.

But while galoshes are being worn in the winter and spring, shoes are not being worn out, and that is where the galosh has knocked the shoe repair business for a loop in the winter.

Shoe repairmen, remarks Layman, must now make their living largely in the summer, and depend on enough business in the winter to carry them until spring comes and the winter spasm of galoshes is over.

Compensations
There are compensations, however. For one thing with the present styles in women's shoes demanding perishable heels, there come off shoes as easily in the winter as in the summer and must be put back on. Women's shoes offer a way to use up odds and ends of repair materials, also. For most of the shoes are built on a scale, both sole and heel that will not take a piece of leather larger than a quarter, and thus the shoe repairman work in lots of left over pieces. This material is first quality, but in too small pieces to be of any other use.

Summer Trade
Summer business is now larger than it used to be because children don't go barefoot the way they used to. The time was when no boy would wear a pair of shoes from May until October unless forced to. Now if they go barefoot it is because they are given orders. And the more shoes worn in the summer time the more repair work there is.

In the 30 years that Layman has been repairing shoes the way of wearing out shoes has not changed a particle. Forty-nine out of 50 persons still wear out their shoes on the outside of the heel and the inside of the sole. A Columbus shoe repairman said some time ago that he could tell a great man by the way he wore out his shoes. If the shoe was worn out evenly over head and sole, the man was not an ordinary mortal.

This might be so, Layman says, but he has never proved it in his own experience. Any one who wears out his shoes in any way but the usual method is certainly out of the ordinary. Layman can tell by looking at the way the shoes are worn on soles and heels whether the owner has fallen arched or rheumatism. Each affliction causes the shoes to be worn out in a way different than the ordinary. The third generation of the Layman family, shoe repairmen, is now growing up. For 57 years C. E. Layman, father of the present repairman, fixed shoes in Marion. Recently he stepped out of his son's shop, but is figuring on starting a little shop of his own, his idea being to have something to do more than anything else. And while the grandfather steps out of the business the grandson is growing into it, for a son of C. E. Layman's is now getting his first training in shoe repairing.

CLEAR ISSUE WHEN KELLOGG MEETS CALLES

Irresistible Force and Immovable Body Portrayed as Both Stand Firm

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Secretary of State Kellogg says he has adopted a "firm policy" toward Mexico.

President Calles of Mexico says his policy as firm as Secretary Kellogg's.

Both seem to mean it.

An irresistible force and an immovable body.

What would happen when these two encountered one another has long been a scientific problem.

It will be solved soon after the first of the year, Secretary Kellogg says.

Kellogg's "firm policy" and President Calles' equally "firm policy" are due to crash together.

The issue is clear cut. There's nothing complicated about it.

Under Mexican laws dating from 1917 foreign oil producers in the republic are denied the right to own their lands outright. They're limited to 50-year leases.

Some time ago President Calles called on all such oil producers to ask before Jan. 1, 1927, for confirmation of their titles.

To those who complied, he promised 50-year leases. The properties of those who balked, he gave warning would be confiscated.

Nobody disputed Mexico's right to decide concerning oil titles acquired later than 1917. Interests which acquired titles earlier than that year, however, set up a howl. Lands they secured in good faith, before the laws were changed, they insisted were theirs for keeps, regardless of subsequent changes.

CALLES charged that a lot of the pre-1917 concessions were crookedly acquired.

The concessionaires rejoined that that was none of Calles' business—they got what they got from the then regularly constituted Mexican government, and nobody has a right to go back of the returns and pick flaws in their titles at this late day.

Calles refused to flinch his program.

Finally most of the European oil interests in the republic have knuckled under and are going to accept 50-year leases.

Not so the Americans. Backed by Secretary Kellogg, they're standing pat. If there's anything in signs, they'll lose their lands—unless something happens to Calles.

KELLOGG's style is somewhat cramped by the United States senate, which shows little disposition to consent to physical interference by this country in affairs south of the Rio Grande.

Senator Borah of Utah, who, as chairman of the foreign affairs committee in the upper house of congress, has a great deal to say in such matters, has given notice that he won't.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for castor oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.—Adv.

agree to anything of the sort. So has Senator Norris of Nebraska. So have several other influential senators.

Still, Kellogg can break diplomatic relations between Washington and Mexico City. He can permit anti-Calles Mexicans to arm on this side of the border.

The game is one that two can play at and neither Kellogg nor Calles appears to have any notion of laying down his hand. The cards will begin to fall Jan. 1 or soon thereafter. It will be a contest of luck and skill with plenty of ill feeling on both sides, and if it breaks up in a row nobody knows how many innocent bystanders ultimately will be dragged into it.

SECTIONMEN AT WORK AGAIN AS GRAVEL THAWS

Track Repairs and Ballasting Operations Resumed on Roads Through Marion

Track repaving and ballasting along railroads operating through Marion was again under way today after the big thaw yesterday.

The disappearance of the majority of ice was gladly welcomed by all railroaders, including well known, brakemen, yard switchmen and others who have outside work. During the three days that the ice covered the tracks, section men were compelled to give up their work along the railroads and turn their attention to other matters.

Trainmen, switchmen and others who are employed in positions where they are called upon to board box cars, throw switches and the like, consider themselves lucky if they have escaped without injury during the forepart of the week. No injuries of this nature were reported. One man on the Erie was injured yesterday afternoon when he slipped from a box car, but according to the report, the accident was not caused by the presence of ice.

Trains were not delayed during the storm.

night to Sunday night. The first program under the new arrangement was broadcast last Sunday. Many local employees who are in the habit of tuning in on the feature missed the entertainment, being unaware of the change.

Gas Car Out

The gasoline car which makes the trip from Marion to Huntington on the Erie failed to operate today and passengers were carried over the run by a regular train. The car will be fixed immediately and again be on the run. The break down caused only a half hour delay.

Heavy Traffic

Passenger transfer traffic has been heavy here during the last few days.

Safety Meeting

A regular safety meeting of the Kent Division, Erie Railroad, was held yesterday in the office of Supt. H. R. Adams. Officials and safety men from all sections of the division were in attendance. Routine safety matters were discussed, with various members offering suggestions for betterment of safety conditions.

TRACY CLAIMS KINZER MUST PAY SHORTAGES

Thirty-Three Hundred Dollars Goes to Butler County General Fund

Columbus, Dec. 9.—Claims that Stanley Kinzer, Butler County treasurer, should pay $3,335.34 into the treasury of that county, to be credited to the undivided general tax fund, is contained in a report made public today by State Auditor Joseph Tracy, covering an special examination of the Butler County treasury.

The amount assessed against Kinzer represents alleged shortages in the funds of the treasury.

The examination, made by State Examiners R. H. Smith and J. S. Clifton, covered the period from Oct. 13, 1925, to Sept. 17, last.

The examiners charged that "loose methods used" rendered their efforts to "determine the various shortages and place the liability where it belongs," a "very difficult task."

Allegation was made in the report that comparison of state collection sheets with the auditor's ledger and treasurer's certifications disclosed a net deficit into the county treasury, the that Kinzer should pay this alleged deficit into the county treasury, the examiners, also, held that he should make good a deficit in cash of $1,118.40, said to have existed following a robbery at the treasurer's office Jan. 25, last.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF WALDO DIES IN ARKANSAS

Mrs. Maria Coleman, 82, Succumb Following Brief Illness

Messages were received here yesterday announcing the death of Mrs. Maria A. Coleman, 82, former well-known resident of Marion County, at her home in Jonesboro, Ark. She passed away Tuesday night following a brief illness, according to word received by her grandson, W. L. Huntsman, 787 Silver-st.

Mr. Huntsman returned only about a week ago from a visit with Mrs. Coleman and at that time she appeared to be in perfect health, so that it is presumed that her death was sudden and unexpected.

Mrs. Cora Huntsman of Silver-st., a daughter, and Mrs. Ruth Olive, of N. Main-st., a grandfather, have gone to Jonesboro to attend the funeral, expected to take place tomorrow. Burial will be at Paragould, Ark.

Early Settlers
Mrs. Coleman was a member of one of the pioneer families of the southern part of Marion County, her father having been Andrew Straub, one of the early settlers in Waldo Township and proprietor of one of the first general merchandise stores in the village of Waldo.

George W. Straub, a brother of Mrs. Coleman living with his daughter, Mrs. D. W. Benedict, of Waldo, is the only surviving member of the original Andrew Straub family of 10 children.

A large number of other relatives of Mrs. Coleman reside in Waldo and Marion.

She left Marion County about 35 years ago with her husband, W. S. Coleman, and family, to reside near Guthrie, Okla. The Coleman family was one of the first from Marion County to take up government land claims in the Oklahoma district.

Organized Firm
Later Mr. Coleman and his three sons, Benjamin, Joseph and Grover, organized the firm of W. S. Coleman & Sons and started a dredge contracting business. All were practical dredge and steam shovel men, having been in the employ of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. prior to leaving here.

They developed one of the largest dredging businesses in the Middle West and during the last 20 years handled several large irrigation contracts in Arkansas and surrounding states. They use Marion-made dredges in practically all of their operations.

Mr. Coleman died several years ago and was buried at Paragould, where the body of his widow will be laid to rest tomorrow.

State Uses Last Peremptory Challenge In Canton Trial

DEFENSE STILL HAS SIX LEFT OF ORIGINAL 16

Pat Takes Active Part in Weeding List of Prospective Jurors

Canton, Dec. 8.—With the state's right to peremptory challenge potential jurors in the murder trial of Patrick E. McDermott expired, twelve talesmen were tentatively seated when court recessed this afternoon. The prosecution had exercised the last of its authorized four challenges and the defense had six of the original sixteen left.

Pat Scores Point
On one occasion, after a juror had been tentatively seated, he remarked to Homer Durand, one of his lawyers, that he thought the man "was a Ku Kluxer."

The man, Otto Black, was recalled to the witness chair. When being questioned, he admitted that he had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan in the past.

When Durand exercised the right to peremptory challenge and the man was dismissed.

Between opposing counsel over various questions directed at the defense in an effort to bring out more about their aroused personal opinions of the case, featured the morning session of the court and gave promise of more wordy combat to come.

Prosecutor McClintock won out in some of the preliminary bickering as the court tentatively seated two potential jurors over the objection of defense counsel thus forcing them to resort to the peremptory challenge, if not before the jurors excused.

When court opened this afternoon there were seven men and five women in the jurybox.

The state today lost all further right to peremptory challenge any potential juror when it exhausted its final challenge.

Both defense and state attorneys expressed the opinion that a jury would be definitely seated not later than tomorrow, unless unforeseen developments cause a further delay.

At the counsel table, McDermott has been active throughout the selection of a jury and was said by Attorney Homer Durand today to have urged the dismissal of the majority of the seven jurors peremptorily excused by the defense.

The statement of E. L. Mills, another defense attorney, that he might possibly place Ben Rudner and Louis Mazer on the witness stand during the murder trial of McDermott, was scouted by the prosecution.

Rudner and Mazer were jointly indicted with the dapper Pat McDermott in connection with the Mellett murder and are scheduled to be tried later.

"TRUE FRIEND" JUROR EXCUSED
Courtroom, Canton, Dec. 8.—A "true friend" of the murdered Don R. Mellett today asked to be excused from jury duty during the trial of Patrick E. McDermott because he "knew and admired the slain man."

The man was James G. Barbour, treasurer of a bank here.

In a voice quivered with emotion, the banker declared:

"He was my friend. I could not listen impartially to the evidence in this case."

"Perhaps I am prejudiced—but I know Mellett," he added later.

He was excused from duty.

of the war and being promoted to the rank of major as a result of his record on the battlefront.

City Solicitor Mouser had planned to set Jan. 5 as the date for his retirement as a municipal official but decided to make it three days later in order to have ample time for disposing of pending legislation and other details of the office before turning it over to his successor.

"He will begin his duties as special counsel to the attorney general when Edward C. Turner of Columbus begins his first term in that office on Jan. 10. Mr. Turner was elected attorney general last month.

Mr. Mouser's resignation dated Dec. 8, was received by Mayor Hazen shortly after noon yesterday. The closing paragraph read as follows:

"In tendering you my resignation, may I assure you that my association with you and other elective officials has been a most pleasant and happy one."

Mayor Hazen, speaking in behalf of himself and other officials associated with Mr. Mouser during the last three years, today expressed regret of pending legislation and other details of the office before turning it over to his successor.

While action of City Council is not required by statute, Mayor Hazen states that he will submit Mr. Mouser's resignation and appointment of his successor to council for approval at its meeting next Monday night.

made a living since he fled from California and that he had been writing articles for radio magazines and that recently he sold an article which is soon to appear under his own name in a magazine having nationwide circulation.

Ormiston declined to discuss any of the thousands of stories which have linked his name with that of Alvin Karpis.

But he was quite willing, according to the reporter, to talk about anything and everything else.

When the reporter, having traced him for several months, knocked last night on the door of the Forest street flat, it was Ormiston who opened the door. He made no attempt at deception when he was addressed as "Mr. Ormiston."

"Come in," he said.

Sergeant Oscar Carson, of the Harrisburg force, was called to Ormiston's flat as soon as his identity was established.

Ormiston sat on the edge of a folding bed, and in front of him on an infant table stood his typewriter with a sheet of manuscript in it.

"I have to write for a living," he explained.

Then he said:

"Would you gentlemen mind showing me your credentials, so I may know whom I am talking to?"

He glanced at the cards and said he was satisfied.

"There are some few things I shall not care to discuss with you," he went on, "but on other subjects, I shall be glad to give you whatever information I can."

Ormiston willingly put on his hat and overcoat and went out with the reporter and the officers at their "quest."

"I really can't understand," he said, "why it has taken so long for you people to find me—or rather for somebody to find me, considering the great number who have been trying. For the fact is that I have made no particular effort to hide."

Uses Different Name
"I have not used any disguises—aside from assuming a different name. And I have not avoided public places. I have been occupying my present apartment for two months."

"Many of the cleverest detectives in the United States have stood close enough to me for a handshake and none of them recognized me. That happened at Atlantic City in July and August, when the American Detective Society was in convention at the Ambassador Hotel."

"I was living in Atlantic City then, and I used to stroll through the lobby every day, mingling with the detectives. Not one gave me a second glance."

"I tell you another incident. On the day Hearst's newspaper printed the story about the finding of 1234 trunk in New York, I was riding in the commuter between New York and Harrisburg. Didn't see a man who had a copy of the New York American with my picture on the front page. Well, he and I discussed the McDermott case for half an hour or so, but it never seemed to occur to him to compare the published photograph with me. In the last few months, I have had many experiences like that."

A point-blank question was put to Ormiston:

"Have you had any communication with Alvin Karpis, the subject within the time you have been sought?"

"None whatever," he said, "and that is all I shall tell you on that subject until after I have consulted my attorney, Edward H. Martin, of Chicago."

Ormiston said that, in selecting an attorney to represent him, he simply used the classified telephone directory when he happened to be in Chicago and took the name at random.

One purpose for which he wanted counsel was for indirect dealing with the editor of radio publications. He would send his manuscript to the lawyer, who would then submit it to the magazine.

and considerably handicapped because of the heavy ice does which block the path of the row boat. There is likelihood that the body has risen some distance toward the surface but that it cannot be seen because of the ice.

The Virden boy was last seen about 12:30 o'clock, Thursday of last week, when he was driving north on Malvest in his Ford sedan. His absence caused no concern until at the close of the afternoon, when relatives notified police and a search was begun.

Early the following morning the Virden automobile was found parked on a driveway at Crystal Lake park and on the front seat was a note in the boy's handwriting indicating that he had gained his life. "Purely a suicide act, caused by excessive worry," was the meaning of the note.

While the note did not reveal what means of self-destruction the boy had used, authorities naturally presumed that he had plunged into the lake and the search for his body has been carried on there as a result.

and considerably handicapped because of the heavy ice does which block the path of the row boat. There is likelihood that the body has risen some distance toward the surface but that it cannot be seen because of the ice.

The Virden boy was last seen about 12:30 o'clock, Thursday of last week, when he was driving north on Malvest in his Ford sedan. His absence caused no concern until at the close of the afternoon, when relatives notified police and a search was begun.

Early the following morning the Virden automobile was found parked on a driveway at Crystal Lake park and on the front seat was a note in the boy's handwriting indicating that he had gained his life. "Purely a suicide act, caused by excessive worry," was the meaning of the note.

While the note did not reveal what means of self-destruction the boy had used, authorities naturally presumed that he had plunged into the lake and the search for his body has been carried on there as a result.

U.S. Has Never Exceeded Present Level of Income--Mellon

PROSPERITY TO CONTINUE FOR ANOTHER YEAR

Congress Justified in Allowing 30 Per Cent Tax Cut for Six Months

Washington, Dec. 9.—Continued prosperity for the United States in 1927 and further progress in the notable improvement made during the past year in restoration of world stability, was predicted today by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in his annual report to congress.

Reaching a level never before attained, national income has so boosted governmental revenues that congress will be justified in allowing a reduction of 30 per cent on taxes due in the first six months of 1927, equivalent to a 15 per cent reduction for the entire year, according to Mellon.

Approval was given by the Secretary to the plan of President Coolidge to leave a greater part of the anticipated $280,000,000 1927 surplus in the hands of the taxpayer.

Mellon, however, expressed opposition to permanent tax reduction until further experience determines whether or not the 1926 tax law will provide sufficient revenue to operate the government in lean as well as prosperous years.

Other Recommendations
Other legislative recommendations follow:

(1) Provision for the extension of original 20 year charters of Federal Reserve banks which have less than eight years to run.

(2) Passage of the McFadden banking bill minus the Hull amendments.

(3) Provision for return of German alien property that will furnish adequate compensation to owners and complete protection to American claimants.

(4) Amendment of the act creating the Farm Loan Bank system to remove fundamental weaknesses in administration of this governmental function.

(5) Enactment of laws establishing Bureaus of Prohibition and Customs in the Treasury department.

(6) Urgent consideration to "other measures" affecting the enforcement of the national prohibition act which were introduced at the last session.

(7) Bill to provide means of replenishing nation's medicinal liquor supply and to adequately control this traffic.

Outstanding features of Mellon's report follow:

Business Situation
"It can be safely stated that the country has reached a level of national income not before exceeded," Mellon declared.

"The year 1926 brought no indication of an ebbing of this high tide and prosperity is continuing. We have worked hard and we have progressed. A land boom in Florida seems to have subsided without serious injury."

"A bumper cotton crop has materially decreased the price of cotton but plans for withholding a portion of the crop and for its orderly marketing are already underway and the financing available."

"The textile industry, which has been unprofitable for the last few years, will have an opportunity for recovery in the low cost of cotton."

"In some parts of the country a surplus of farm lands, taken over by banks for loans, will have to be worked out."

"Bituminous coal mining, which has been depressed, shows improvement through foreign demand."

"The most notable improvement," Mellon continued, "has been the restoration of the railroads to their proper place. They are beginning to make up for losses following government control. Their credit is good and their efficiency of highest order."

Finances Excellent
Mellon referred to the financial structure of the federal government as "in excellent shape."

The national debt is under $19,500,000,000, compared to $26,500,000,000 just after the war, government bonds over our taxes yielding ample revenue and expenditures held without heavy increase.

"A gold basis for currency has been in successful operation in England for two years," he declares. "The Dawes plan has completed two full years of operation and its functioning is satisfactory."

"The finances of France, Italy and Belgium have improved, and I look for further progress in the case of other nations."

Mellon said that in this country there has been some over building in particular lines, although he added that the demand continues for better living conditions and that the building industry is sound. "The government's $105,000,000 building program and necessary road construction 'should remove the fear of a slump in the industry,'" he said.

Increase in installment plans buying "within limits discloses nothing inherently unsound in this practice," according to the secretary.

"We are a creditor nation," Mellon said. "We are owed more than we owe. Objection has been raised to our foreign loans on the ground that they will be used to establish more effective competition against American industry and that they are not safe."

TAXATION
Mellon reiterated his objection to any change in the program of retiring the public debt, declaring that the present rate is not oppressive.

"It does not seem probable that we can contemplate a reduction in government expenditures for the next few years," he added. "We must turn to consideration of government receipts to determine to what extent, if at all, taxes can be reduced."

"We are now at a very high tide of prosperity," Mellon continued. "There is no reason to expect at this time a marked reaction, but before determining that permanent tax reduction can be had we must have reasonable assurance of a continued flow from the sources where our revenue is obtained."

"Federal government revenue comes almost entirely from sources which may fluctuate violently from year to year. A good year is reflected in increased income and a bad year will equally make itself felt in less government revenue."

Mellon gave this as an argument against permanent tax reduction at this congress, but said that the necessity for caution does not prevent a material credit to taxpayers the first half of 1927, or in the last half of a fiscal year for which adequate governmental revenue is assured.

Prohibition
Mellon referred to the effects of the prohibition reorganization, under which the country was divided into district and governmental effort concentrated on the big problem of enforcement, as "very gratifying."

Mellon reviewed operations of the prohibition service in the last year showing that smuggling and diversion of industrial alcohol, two principal sources of bootleg supply, have been partially plugged up. He referred to the operation of treaties with Great Britain and other countries as effective.

With the closing of these sources of supply it was anticipated by the treasury that moonshining would begin to flourish and that drastic steps, previously would be necessary to combat this new problem.

"It has long been realized that the national prohibition law will be successfully enforced only when the law and its enforcement shall have met with the general approval," Mellon said. "The underlying thought therefore, in instructions to field forces is that the law must be so administered as to win popular approval."

Foreign Debts
In the report is contained a large volume of correspondence between President Wilson and other American officials, and French and British governmental finance leaders for the edification of those who believe this country may be persuaded into a debt cancellation plan.

"From abroad has come again the suggestion that the indebtedness of the nations of Europe between themselves, and with the United States would be cancelled or should be pooled and a general joint settlement take place," Mellon said.

"This suggestion has been presented in various forms, but upon analysis, it is essential basis seems to be a belief that the advances of the United States during the war were in the nature of subsidies and were therefore not loans at all.

The position of the debt commission that the advances were loans to be repaid has been the consistent policy of the United States from the first. Until the war ended no intimation was made that these advances were subsidies."

Mellon said that foreign debts of the principal amount of $9,811,000,000, out of an original holding by this government of $10,338,000,000 have been funded. The French pact remains the only important debt yet unsettled or unrati-

HERE'S NEW FROCK
FOR AFTERNOON
TEA OR BRIDGE

For the simple afternoon tea "at home" or bridge the simple dress of crepe, tulle or velvet is appropriate. Trimmings and styles may be as elaborate or unique as one chooses, but the effect is generally simple. This is true of the frock shown. Blue canton crepe is the material chosen, the bodice being perfectly round neck. The skirt is a succession of small circular flounces each one trimmed with beige fringe. Fringe is the trimming medium many dressmakers are employing for more formal afternoon frocks, and tiers are one of the noted styles being shown for resort and early spring wear.

work Mrs. Sepple was assisted in serving luncheon by her guest, Miss Mary Harrington. The members will hold their annual Christmas exchange party in one week at the home of Mrs. J. A. Rice, Park-st.

IMAGINATION

Loving

It is better to shoot at a star than to aim at the mud, of course. But how shall aspirations profit a man if he have no ability? Fate is an ironical mood indeed when it bestows one and withholds the other. However, irony is a mood in which, apparently, Fate revels.

Percival's penchant is for art. Patiently and persistently he sets about wooing success with his brush and palette. He worships at the shrine of the Old Masters. He emulates the methods of the New. Religiously he reads every word the art critics write. He haunts all exhibitions. And he paints and paints and paints. Yet, somehow, the world never hears of Percival. So he labors for love as long as he can, then buries his talent deep, and the rest of his life works for money. Peter dreams of being a play of his own produced upon Broadway. Peter makes a point of cultivating celebrities. Once in a while Peter gives a "soiree." The rest of the time Peter dines upon cheese and crackers. When necessity drives the lad who would be playwright to forewear his heart's desire.

Paul wants to be a poet. Let those who will be practically productive. He intends to live by an ideal. But Paul's verses do not sell. His songs are not heard by the world he had thought to delight with them. Paul discovers that what is food for the spirit will not sustain the body. Poet though he hoped to be, Paul must live and he is hungry.

What heroines of Percival, Peter and Paul? Failing to win recognition in their chosen arts, do they die of disappointment? Oh, no. If they were real geniuses they might. But they are only near geniuses, and herein lies the story. They have no one to blame for their non-success but themselves. They simply overestimated their talent and counted too much on ambition. So Percival, Peter and Paul, being sensible young men, give up attempting the impossible and make their livelihood in ways for which they are better fitted.

The world hears of such failures and comments both in pity and in scorn. "Poor fellows, they bit off more than they could chew."

Brutally frank as the comment sounds, that is just what they did.

LIFE does deny our desires, does rob us of our illusions. But still we have our imagination. We must call upon it to fill the void.

Head of Forest Schools Is Held for Hardin County Grand Jury, Bond $1,000

Charges of "Striking and Assaulting" Are Result of Measures Taken in Punishing Two Students Wearing Caps in School Building

Kent, Dec. 9.—L. R. Fultz, superintendent of the Forest schools, north of Marion, Ohio, is being held under $1,000 bond by the Hardin County grand jury, on charges of "striking and assaulting" two students in his school. Bond was set at $1,000.

At a preliminary hearing Fultz entered a plea of not guilty. According to the charges filed, Mr. Fultz on Nov. 22, took Paul Liles, 12, and Franklin Cline, 11, with "more than usual roughness" when the two youths are alleged to have worn their caps while marching out of the hall of the school building. It is said that the boys were taken to the office of a physician for medical attention the evening following the incident and that on the following day the Liles had an injury.

Charges against the instructor were filed by the parents.

The defense contended that Superintendent Fultz acted within his rights for punishing the disobedient and that the boys were aware of the rule forbidding the wearing of their caps until after leaving the building.

GALION TELEPHONE CO. FIGURES IN MERGER

Consolidation with Northern Ohio Company Effected at Stockholders' Meeting

Kent, Dec. 9.—The Galion Telephone company has been merged with the Northern Ohio Telephone company as a result of a meeting of the stockholders of the Galion organization held at the company's office here Monday. Ninety per cent of the stock of the company was owned by those who attended the meeting, which was held at the office of J. W. Gager, a stockholder of the company.

The financials of all the exchanges will be taken care of at the headquarters of the company and all assets and liabilities will be taken over and settled. There will be no change in the office of the Galion company and the same plan of management will be continued.

STEAM SHOVELS DEFEAT Y-INDUS IN THREE GAMES

C. D. & M. Anthony Games Postponed Last Night

Steam Shovel continued their winning streak last night when they made a clean sweep of the bowling games with Y-Indus. The Shovelers have lost four out of 30 games played in the Industrial League this season. The C. D. & M. Anthony Laundry match was postponed last night because of the death of E. C. Macken's father. Macken is a prominent member of the C. D. & M. team.

With 100 points handicap on each game, the picked team from the Marion Business Women's Club last night lost to a team from the Marion Business Men's Club by slight margins in each contest. Blum, with 170 points, was high scorer for the women, while Cull's 204 mark was high for the men.

First of Series
The match last night was the first of a series to be played between representatives from each club. The men's team next week will probably be composed of different members but the women's outfit will continue with the same lineup.

Norris and Fies of the Steam Shovelers were tied for high honors in the Industrial League game, each bowling 210 in a single game. Biddle's 233 mark was high for Y-Indus. Biddle was also high scorer of all matches last night.

In the Business Women's regular bowling matches, Porter and Single bowlers divided a double hit. Blum won one and lost one to Oberlander's team, and Manner took two from Sautter's outfit.

PROSPECT YOUTH WINS GLORY AS COLLEGE RUNNER

Weaver Emery, Prospect, Leads Cross-Country Team at Miami

Weaver Emery, 22, son of C. V. Emery, Prospect, a graduate of Prospect High School, is at present one of the most prominent track men in Miami University.

Emery at present is the captain of his school track team and holder of the Ohio Conference record two mile run, with which he was credited in the spring of 1925. Two weeks ago he won the Buckeye Athletic Association cross-country run at Ohio Wesleyan University and established a record for that course.

Emery entered Miami in 1923 and made the Freshman team. The next year he made the varsity track team and was a consistent winner.

In the two mile run of the Ohio Conference match at Ohio Wesleyan in 1925 he lowered the record and in the dual meet of Cincinnati and Miami at Miami last spring took his own record.

In 1925 Emery won the Ohio Conference cross-country event held at Wooster and established a record for that course. This fall he won the same event at Miami.

In addition to his record on the track, Weaver Emery is president of Miami Y. M. C. A. and a member of the student assembly. He also is an honor student. He is majoring in history and expects to teach in this branch. He will graduate in the spring.

Past Grand Master James B. Ruhl, Cleveland, Has Charge of Services in Masonic Temple; More Than 400 Members and Guests Present

Arthur M. Blair was installed as worshipful master of Sojourners' Lodge No. 653, Free and Accepted Masons by James B. Past Grand Master Ruhl installed Merle K. Pace as senior warden; Frederick M. Cohn, junior warden; William C. Phillips, treasurer; Bert L. Wallace, secretary; Carter M. Patton, chaplain; Norris E. Crissinger, senior deacon; Carl W. Thew, junior deacon; Orville P. Grover, senior steward; O. David, junior steward; and V. M. Dutton, Tyler.

Carter M. Patton presented Bert L. Wallace, whose term as worshipful master of the lodge ended last night, with a jeweled ring. Following a response by Mr. Wallace, Mr. Patton presented the lodge with the picture of the class of 1926.

Orator Signs

An orator consisting of Mrs. R. O. Broder, Mrs. H. C. Green, Mrs. B. L. Wallace, Mrs. Rachel McFee, E. H. Cowan, Clyde Coulter, Rev. Paul R. Clouser, and R. O. Broder sang "Carroll" by H. Lane Wilson, accompanied at the piano by Miss Elma Sage.

E. J. Price, superintendent of the Ohio Masonic Home, gave the roll call of officers elected, the installation ceremony following. Assisting in the performance of the ritual was F. B. Lee, Jr., lecturer of District No. 10, Grand Lodge of Ohio, F. & A. M., a grand marshal.

Two vocal solos, "Three for Jack" and "A Bowl of Roses," were sung by R. O. Broder accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Broder.

John J. Stafford made the presentation to the lodge of pictures of Past Masters' Sojourners' Lodge No. 653, F. & A. M., giving a brief history of each Past Master, including James I. Instrumental Music.

Members of the lodge, L. B. McNeal Philharmonic Ensemble, entertained with two instrumental numbers, "Rosemary" by Herward and "Moonlight on the Ganges," a popular number. Prayer was offered by Rev. Paul R. Clouser and Rev. Alfred W. Swan.

Worshipful Master Blair called upon several of the honored guests of the lodge for a few brief remarks of an adjourning. Mr. Ruhl, in a splendid talk on "Our building of character," spoke of our nation's material wealth in capitalization, production, transportation and education but deplored the lack of character building.

Mr. Ruhl designated four great essentials in character building, first, money; second, loyalty to the rights of others; third, regard for the rights of others; and fourth, loyalty to one's own self.

E. J. Price gave a brief talk concerning the Ohio Masonic Home, its character, affiliations with the Masonic body, and its rules.

Instrumental Music.

Members of the lodge, L. B. McNeal Philharmonic Ensemble, entertained with two instrumental numbers, "Rosemary" by Herward and "Moonlight on the Ganges," a popular number. Prayer was offered by Rev. Paul R. Clouser and Rev. Alfred W. Swan.

Worshipful Master Blair called upon several of the honored guests of the lodge for a few brief remarks of an adjourning. Mr. Ruhl, in a splendid talk on "Our building of character," spoke of our nation's material wealth in capitalization, production, transportation and education but deplored the lack of character building.

Mr. Ruhl designated four great essentials in character building, first, money; second, loyalty to the rights of others; third, regard for the rights of others; and fourth, loyalty to one's own self.

E. J. Price gave a brief talk concerning the Ohio Masonic Home, its character, affiliations with the Masonic body, and its rules.

Asa Queen, lecturer of District No. 15, honored the women present in a short speech.

Proceeding the ceremony dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock by Lydia Charles No. 53, Order Eastern Star. Rev. James M. Fisher offered prayer. Wendell Wiant, representing the C. G. Wiant Bookstore furnished music with an orthophonic Victrola.

Guests were present from Roanoke, Ala.; Huntington, Ind.; Canaan, W. Va.; Greenwood, Ind.; Cleveland, Columbus, Elyria, Springfield, LaRue, Erie, Upper Sandusky, Prospect, and Fredericktown, O.

The committee in charge consisted of Carl W. Thew, chairman, Lowell J. Smith, Grover C. Snyder, Charles S. Burnside and Clifford W. Chapman.

The lodge was chartered Oct. 21, 1920 by the Grand Lodge of Ohio, Free and Accepted Masons.

ELECTRIC IRON SAVES 13 MILES PER YEAR

A pedometer showed that a woman before her electric iron was installed, walked 13 miles a year between the ironing board and the range, which were five feet apart. The time consumed in doing the weekly laundry work was reduced from six to three and one-half hours in one case by substituting one kilowatt hour of electricity for hand labor. Cleaning and filling kerosene lamps on one farm required one full year of 12-hour days over a period of 30 years before electric lights were installed.

WHAT'S WHAT

Vol. 2. No. 1.

Have you ever seen the stores in Marion look prettier than they do this holiday season? We hope you're doing all your Christmas shopping right here in Marion.

The honeymoon, well, let's be fun. When the bride does all she wishes. But married life has not begun. 'Till the bride does all the dishes.

There's a lot being said about thrift and about saving money, but honestly, we can't think of a better example of real thrift than the purchase of "Perfection Weather Stripping." The saving they make on the coal bill alone will surprise you.

We like to think that this establishment of ours is useful to this community. If it isn't, then we haven't any excuse for staying here. We hope you need us. We KNOW we need you.

We believe everybody in Marion is all set for a happy Christmas. It's a time for happiness and we hope you have your full share this Christmas.
